Development Details

Property Size 0.14 acres Present Zoning RST-3

Existing Use residential, partially built house

Proposed Development residential, single dwelling house

Proposed Variation / Supplement use natural elevation for backfilling, rather than building 3ft of elevation around the perimeter of the house

(use separate sheet if necessary)

Reasons in Support of Application After getting the foundation in and having the drainage signed off on, we don't believe it's beneficial to build the grade up another 3ft against the foundation walls, as it provides no benefit to the drainage or structure. Having the grade built up around the perimeter would also affect snow removal in the winter, as operators wouldn't be able to scrape easily because of the uneven grade. Not backfilling would NOT exceed the permitted building height either.

Subject: Re: 47040 Snowmist Dr Variance

Hi Julie,

Just to briefly additionally summarize what our intention is for this variance. We would like to increase the living space without changing the overall height or square footage of our current build. To do this we hope you will allow us not to have to build up the additional 3ft of backfilling . This will affect our snow plowing plan and cost us upwards of $20,000 in additional material brought in to meet those needs.

Thanks Aaron
